"A Star Looks Down" is another delightful romance from Betty Neels. She used one of her basic plot lines - rich, handsome Dutch doctor falls in love with plain, but feisty, English nurse - and did what she did best with that plot line, create an enjoyable, sweet romance. Beth is a nice heroine - a bit put upon by older step brother Philip who basically took her beloved house in the country.

Still, A Star Looks Down is really an adorable story overall. It features many items that Neels fans will recognize: wealthy Dutchmen, a sweet and sensible nurse, mentions of sensible clothing, and comfort food. If you like Betty Neels, you will likely enjoy this book quite a bit. And if you're in the mood for quiet, fairytale-ish medical romance, you may want to give this author a try.
